

“a Conversation on/about Relationships”

“Cultivating Relationships that Create an Enhanced Campus Community”

“Our lives are an incredible web of seemingly complex relationships”. We are constantly interacting with parents, children, mates, bosses, employees, friends and enemies. But before we can have a complete relationship with another, we must first have a complete relationship with ourselves. Before we can ever be loved, respected, supported, and adored by another, we must feel loving, respectful, and supportive of ourselves. The reason is that as we seek unconditional love and support, our true intention is to attract to ourselves the treatment, circumstances, and people who duplicate the beliefs, images, and judgments we truly have about ourselves and life. If our belief systems and images are wrong, a relationship simply compounds our basic problems.”

Please join us in featuring;

Moderator: Yasmin Ranney, Assistant Dean, Academic Development

Panelists:

Hamid Akbari, Department Chair – Professor, Marketing and Management

Flora Llacuna, Coordinator - Student Enrichment Programs

Jade Stanley, Department Chair - Associate Professor, Social Work

Sheena L. Warren, Director - Adult and Women Student Programs

Thursday, November 19, 2009
Student Union-Room SU-214
Student Activity Hour-1:40-3:00 pm

presented by the 2010 Black History Month Committee

BHM Event Chair, Robert E. Bedford
 BHM Event Co-Chair, Alice Pennamon

