University Policy

Northwestern Illinois University (the "University") charges course fees for course materials and/or services to support student learning in accordance with this policy. Course fees will not be charged for courses that do not meet the conditions stated.

This policy defines the items, circumstances, and processes departments/programs use to determine course specific fees. Expenditures from fees support student learning, provide students with consumable materials, and allow departments to supplement the maintenance and repair of specialized studio equipment.

Students and departments/programs offering courses/services toward degree completion at the University.

PROCEDURES

1. APPROVALS AND NOTIFICATIONS

The department chair/program director/coordinator should consult with faculty in the affected disciplines when new course fees are proposed. A written application for new course or program fees will be submitted to the appropriate dean. Upon approval of the dean the request will be forwarded to the Office of the Provost.

During the approval process, questions concerning course fees should be directed to the chair/program director/coordinator of the originating department/program.

Completed applications will be submitted by the department chair or program director to their Dean's office. Deans will review applications and submit approved applications to the Office of the Provost. The Office of the Provost must approve the establishment or deletion of a course fee or any change in an established fee amount. Completed fee applications for new fees are due to the Office of the Provost before January 15th, immediately preceding the fall semester in which the course fee will first be charged.

If an application is denied at any time during the review process, the originator of the application may ask for reconsideration from the denier.

Departments and the University shall notify students of all approved fees in the university catalog, schedule of classes and department web sites. Students must be notified at least one semester prior to the implementation of any new course fees. When new fees are implemented, every effort should be made to notify students as soon as possible so that students can incorporate estimated expenses into their financial planning.

Applications will consist of:

- Program/Department
- Course/Program Name and Number
- Request: New Fee; Fee Adjustment; Deletion of Fee
- Fee Amount
- Detailed justification for the fee
- Materials and services to be acquired/rendered

FOR PUBLIC COMMENT UNTIL 7/5/2016
