The Department of Counselor Education expressly reserves the right to consider candidates for admission based on criteria in addition to the admission application. Specifically, the Department of Counselor Education may deny a student admission based on information that indicates the student lacks professional judgment or has exhibited behavior that calls into question the student's suitability for the addiction counseling profession. Any student denied admission to the Addiction Counseling Certificate program may request review of the determination and will be afforded an opportunity to respond to the information upon which the decision is made.
