The biggest success has been through the Reimagining Food Initiative which has grown into a collaborative partnership between the College of Arts and Science and the Division of Student Affairs. As a result many opportunities for the collaborative work have been and are in the process of being developed. Partnerships between FYE faculty and Student Affairs also continue to grow. Faculty are also working with Student Affairs more intentionally to encourage students in their courses to participate in civic activities. An example here is found with a faculty member in biology giving extra credit for students who participated in a national volunteer week event.

3.2.4 Through participation in the AASCU Campus and Community Civic Health Initiative, conduct a comprehensive review of existing civic engagement activities at the University.

Item is in progress. There have been discussions between Student Affairs and each of the academic deans and some preliminary meetings with a few departments to discuss their existing areas of engagement. The Development Office created a brochure of endowed and annually-funded scholarships, including those available for underrepresented and undocumented students, which was widely circulated to the University community and posted online. The Office conducted “Foundation 101” workshops for the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Education, and the College of Business and Management, during which, Development communicated that most NEIU Foundation scholarships do not require U.S. Citizenship.

The Development Office helped make the case for Academic Works software, which will provide a searchable database of all scholarships, awards, and other financial aid opportunities available to students and prospective students regardless of citizenship. The Office also provided NEIU Admissions with the percentage of NEIU Foundation Scholarships open to undocumented students and dollar amount available for a project with the Mayor’s office.

A new website specifically for undocumented students was created by the Marketing Department. This is a one stop shop for information that will help educate and support students.

3.4.3 Develop and implement fundraising and communications plan for the opening of the new El Centro Campus.

3.5.1 Use targeted electronic communications to convey the University’s brand and to engage alumni.

The Offices of Alumni Relations and Development increased the number of messages sent to alumni and friends via electronic communication through the use of NetCommunity Spark. There has been greater consistency in messaging about the University and its accomplishments. In addition, the use of e-communications has been an effective tool used to inform the external community about events at the University.

Partnering with the Development Office, the Marketing Department developed e-creatives to send through NetSpark engaging alumni, donors and friends. In addition, the Marketing Department has worked to enhance the web presence for alumni relations and social media participation.

The Marketing Department redesigned the Admissions Facebook page and it includes an “Apply” link and other important information, such as financial aid. In addition, public relations and marketing are working together to use social media to share University messages and stories.

3.6 Implement a marketing and public relations plan to communicate the University’s brand to external and internal audiences.

3.6.1 Focus the University’s communication plan to emphasize the University’s special attributes.

The Marketing and Public Relations creative team has identified five core brand messages for the University... Learn, Belong, Achieve, Transform, and Lead. These messages and core words are being integrated into all of the branding communications such as the new website, recruitment materials, social media, etc.

With the goal of enhancing and protecting the University’s Brand, the Marketing Department has updated and improved the brand guide.

The Marketing and Public Relations teams worked together to promote the recent Newsweek Best Investment recognition. This national recognition is now highlighted in all of our publications and on our website/social media outlets. In addition, banners are being created to hang outside of University buildings.

4.2 Utilize innovative approaches to recruit and retain faculty and staff committed to student success.

4.2.1 Using the results of the salary study, develop a multi-year plan to address salary issues within available resources.

Not implemented. The salary study was based on salary ranges and did not yield the results necessary to develop a viable multi-year plan. In addition, operating budget challenges further complicate the development of a multi-year plan.

4.2.2 Explore the effectiveness and expand the use of recruitment packages like HigherEd.com.

Effective publication campaigns were utilized this year in our recruitment efforts for 17 new tenure-track faculty.

4.3 Provide support systems and programs (including customer service training) that foster a positive work environment for all.
