This is a concept map, showing how regional centers for peer study might be identified for all students. Students are color coded to the nearest library to their home, and number of students assigned to each library is shown. The name and address of the nearest library is assigned to each student.

The purpose is to show how scattered sites may be used for peer group work. Click here for a similar concept map for selected Starbucks, or click here for the full report.