

NSF GRANT WRITING WORKSHOP OCTOBER 26TH, 2018 NORTHEASTERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

Robin Wright, Division Director of Undergraduate Education at the National Science Foundation (NSF), will lead a Hand-on Workshop for Writing Successful NSF Proposals from 2-5pm in the Golden Eagles room at the Women in Science Conference held on Oct 26, 2018 at Northeastern Illinois University.

All levels of trainees are welcome and early stage investigators (ESIs) are strongly encouraged to attend.

This highly interactive workshop will help you understand the granting process at NSF and take steps toward your first (or next) NSF proposal. Please come to the workshop with a draft of a proposal to work on or an idea for a proposal. (A good place to start is to answer: Why do I need funds? What goals will the funds enable me to accomplish? Why is accomplishing these goals important to my field and to the nation?) You will receive materials in advance that will be helpful to review prior to the workshop.
